To Whom It May Concern:

Brandon Hayes, a co-op student from John Diefenbaker Secondary School in Hanover, worked within Supply Chain and Finance divisions at Bruce Power for a period of nine weeks from April to June 2015. The objective of this program is to provide promising students an opportunity to explore potential career scenarios, to gain experience working within a large corporation and to expand an appreciation of the discipline and work ethic required in a full time employment position.

During his time at Bruce Power Brandon has demonstrated initiative, team work, and patience while being assigned various activities within both organizations. In particular he distinguished himself in supporting the Supply Chain Warehouse team in reorganizing the Compressed Gas Storage area to become more streamlined and efficient. His safety conscious drive, determination and high standards coupled to an uncompromising vision of excellence were noted by all who work with him on this project. The work he accomplished will provide a model for other on site compressed gas storage locations.

As an individual Brandon proved reliable and exceptionally responsible, regularly volunteering to jump in and support any task. While working in Finance he demonstrated an ability to multi-task, balancing various activities without dropping any balls. Key to Brandon's success is his strong communication skills, his willingness to ask questions while communicating progress, problems and potential delays with many on-going events. Brandon is an intelligent personable young man who was well liked by all in the workplace.

I am convinced that Brandon possesses the skills and traits to be an asset to any future employers and to allow him to succeed in any endeavour he choose to apply himself to.

Yours very truly,
